

Youngsters' Screams May Have Saved Brother's Life

(COURIER NEWS SERVICE)
RICEVILLE — The screams of frightened children are being credited here Thursday with saving the life of a Maple Leaf man who could have been killed in Wednesday's tornado.

Frank Zeimetz, an employee of the Oliver Co. in Charles City, was asleep in the upstairs room of his home when the screams of his younger brothers and sisters awakened him.

Zeimetz rushed downstairs to quiet the children and while he was talking with them, the upstairs portion of the home of his mother, Mrs. Lidwina Zeimetz, was blown away.

In addition, all of the farm buildings were destroyed by the force of the high winds.

Ride Out Storm

When Zeimetz first arrived on the ground level, he saw the approaching tornado and hustled the youngsters, Larry, Nicholas Jr., Barbara and Mary Jo, into the basement. There, they rode out the storm.

During the brunt of the tornado, a clothes dryer tipped over on one of the children but only slight bruises were reported.

Mrs. Zeimetz was away during the storm.

Extensive damage was caused by the winds that swept through other areas of Howard County.

The Don Fairchild farm, east of Saratoga on Highway 9, received severe damages with all of the buildings with the exception of the home being blown away.

Flee Storm

Fairchild, when he saw the storm approaching, hurried his family into the car and drove away from the scene. When neighbors arrived, they feared the family had been buried in

Greene Not Hit But Two Storms Seen in Area

GREENE — Despite reports to the contrary, Greene was not hit by a tornado Wednesday although at least two were reported in the area.

Wayne Fischer, publisher of the Greene Recorder, said that no damage had been recorded in the town of Greene but some area farms were hit by high winds.

Fischer said that most of the farms reporting damage were to the west of Greene.

He said that he saw two tornadoes — one to the east and the other to the west of the town.

"I followed the one to the east for a while," he said. "I saw it disappear for a minute or two and then it reappeared looking as if it could have been about a mile wide. That's the one that went on into Charles City."

He said the tornado to the west of Greene was evidently the one that hit near Marble Rock, inflicting some damage to farms in that vicinity.

Conservation Club in Eldora Names Officers

(COURIER NEWS SERVICE)
ELDORA — The Iowa River Conservation and Improvement Club has elected new officers. Elected to three year terms as directors were Joe Thuent of Ackley and Juch Juchems of Steamboat Rock. Retiring as board members are Paul Primus and Bob Finger, both of Steamboat Rock.

Holdover members of the board are Dean Kelsey of Iowa Falls, Abe H. Jaspers of Steamboat Rock, Corwin Hadley of New Providence and Willard Ross and Noble DeNeui, both of Wellsburg.

During the board's organizational meeting, Juchems was elected president, and outgoing president Kelsey was chosen vice president. Anna Doolard of Steamboat Rock was re-appointed secretary-treasurer. The board is to meet Monday to choose committees.

NEW STAMPS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations has issued three new postage stamps designed by Ole Hamann of Denmark, head of the world organization's Graphic Presentation Unit. The issues—two commemoratives on the U.N. Industrial Development Organization and a regular air mail stamp—brought to 20 the number of U.N. stamps that Hamann has designed.

Jaycees Talled Project 'Sandpile' At Charles City

(COURIER NEWS SERVICE)
CHARLES CITY — A project to supply children in Charles City with sandpiles was completed Wednesday afternoon only hours before the tornado slammed across the town.

About 190 sandpiles using 37 tons of sand were created in back yards of homes here, according to a report Wednesday afternoon by Joe Keeney, chairman of "Operation Sandpile."

"The sale of tires didn't go so good this year," Keeney said Wednesday afternoon before the tornado struck. "We only sold about 15. We had a hard time finding tires this year because so many farmers use them as dual wheels on tractors. Then, too, many folks furnished their own tires or frames to contain the sand."

Keeney estimated that after expenses the Jaycees could expect to realize about $150 profit on the project conducted Thursday through Saturday last week.

The money was planned for use in future community projects such as a Fourth of July celebration and the annual Easter Egg Hunt.

Three Northeast Iowans Honored At ISU Fetes

AMES — Scholarships and awards were given to three Iowa State University architecture students from Northeast Iowa in ceremonies on the campus this week as the spring quarter draws to a close.

Richard T. Anderson, son of R. L. Anderson, Highway 218 4, Cedar Falls, a senior student, was awarded the Wald Education Fund Scholarship of $600. The award is sponsored by the American Institute of Architects. Anderson is a member of Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary; Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary, and Tau Sigma Delta, architecture honorary.
